

Terms and Conditions of the best oral presentation and the best poster awards of the International Interdisciplinary PhD Workshop 2017

1. Organizer and founder of the IIPhDW 2017 awards competition and prizes: Lodz University of Technology, Institute of Applied Computer Science;
2. Entry is open to persons who meet following criteria:
 - a. have registered for the IIPhDW 2017 conference;
 - b. have submitted a paper through: iiphdw2017.p.lodz.pl;
 - c. are “Young Scientists” – PhD students.
3. There is no extra fee to take part in this competition;
4. Value of best oral presentation prize is approx. 140 euro (600 PLN).
5. Value of best poster prize is approx. 90 euro (400 PLN);
6. Winners will be chosen by panel of judges: (dr Jan Mikulka – Awards Chairman, dr Radosław Wajman, prof. Jan Sikora, prof. Krzysztof Kluszczyński) – 5 the best oral presenters and 6 the best poster presenters will collect diplomas of being IIPhDW 2017 Laureate.
7. The winners will be announced by Prof. Krzysztof Kluszczyński and they will collect Laureate diplomas and prizes during Closing Ceremony of the Conference.
8. All oral presentations will be assessed by the jury during 4 plenary sessions;
9. All posters and its multimedia invitations will be assessed by the jury during 3 interactive poster sessions.
10. When choosing the winner will be taken into consideration:
 - a. Novelty and innovation of presented research;
 - b. Potential impact of the results on the development of the research field;
 - c. Substantive corrected style of data presentation;
 - d. Style and manner of data presentation;
 - e. Behaviour and activity during discussions;
 - f. Aesthetic/beauty of poster presented.
11. The organizer will notify in writing as soon as possible the winner about the technical details of prize when the winner will be absent.
12. By entering this competition, an IIPhDW 2017 participant is indicating his/her agreement to be bound by these terms and conditions